

MONOPOLY AND COMBINATION NECESSARY

Essential Factor Future Development Water Powers, Says Secretary Fisher

GOVERNMENT REGULATION Urges Congress to Decide on Policy to Encourage Expansion and Protect Public

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Monopoly and combination must be recognized as an essential factor in the future development of the water powers of the United States, said Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, before the federal waterways commission today. Secretary Fisher advised the commission to support no legislation, to hinder or prevent the combination of power companies, or the consolidation of several water powers under one system of operation. Instead, he said, government activity should be centered on the regulation of power and electricity production companies, and on national and state governments should spendly agree upon a general policy that will encourage development while protecting the rights of the public.

"The net public loss through the cause of these natural resources is being great as the loss through their abuse," said Secretary Fisher. "Combination and monopoly is the natural process in water power development, but there should be a provision against the assignment of water power sites without the sanction of the executive officials of the government."

Would Alleviate Misapprehension.
"Such federal regulations of assignments coupled with a regulation of the use of the power and a limitation upon the leases given to private parties would 'alleviate public misapprehension' as to the action of water power companies," said Secretary Fisher.

To Induce Capital Investment.
"To induce capital investment in water power development is an important part of a proper federal policy," said Mr. Fisher. "The returns to the investors should be made large enough to bring about the speedy use of all valuable water power sites."

To protect the rights of the states and nation and develop the country's water possibilities, Mr. Fisher suggested this as the basis for a federal water power policy, which he urged congress for immediate action.

Basis for Policy.
"Federal government to retain the right to grant permits for power development enterprises."
"The right to adjust the basis of rates at certain intervals to be reserved."
"Provision to be made in the grants for regulation of the enterprise by the state or its municipal divisions."
"Revenues collected by the government for the use of water power to be expended on the stream where the power is developed."
"Revenue and taxes to be made as low as possible."

Gifford Pinchot, ex-chief forester, advocated that all power licenses be made for a limited term, approximately 50 years. Secretary Fisher expressed the opinion that such a limitation is not necessary if the government serves the right to adjust the rates at intervals of approximately 10 years.

MRS. PATTERSON ON STAND OWN BEHALF

begins Story She Hopes Will Exonerate Her To Re-gain Recital Today

DENVER, Nov. 23.—At 2:45 o'clock this afternoon Gertrude Gibson Patterson, charged with the murder of her husband, Charles A. Patterson, took to stand in her own defense and commenced the recital of her married life, which her counsel hopes to free her in a hour later the defense had passed a most critical stage. The expected recital of the state to the introduction of her story had been made, the court ruled favorably upon its admissibility. When Mrs. Patterson resumed her story before the jury, to borrow nothing, she will practically be free from interruption by the prosecution.

A trim, attractive little figure in her blue suit—Mrs. Patterson began in low, but distinct, tone the story upon high rests practically the entire structure of the defense. She told of her marriage to Patterson at Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal., in September, 1908, after three months' acquaintance, and of her return to Chicago, soon after, where, she said, they furnished an apartment at a cost of $500, which she made. How they lived happily for a while.

In November, she declared, Patterson began to make incessant demands

NEW MOVEMENT IS UNDER WAY

CAMPAIN FOR "MEN AND RELIGION" STARTED

Lo—Gathers at the Y. M. C. A.—Committees Named—Addresses

A most enthusiastic crowd of men gathered at the Y. M. C. A. last night for dinner, after which they formally launched the "Men and Religion Movement" in the Pikes Peak region. Representatives, about 80 in number, and consisting of both pastors and laymen, of all the churches in Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou, were present, and judging from the opening meeting of this campaign it will be the greatest thing of its kind ever attempted in Colorado Springs.

After dinner had been served the meeting was called to order, the Rev. Samuel Carlin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, presiding, and the speaker of the evening, Dudley B. Watson of Denver, was introduced. Mr. Watson's address was really a message from Denver in which he outlined the organizations in that city and told of the work being done there. He pointed out the necessity of church organization in this movement and gave many practical illustrations of the work being done in Denver by "busy business men." He said that as many as 70 men were converted in one of the men's meetings in Denver, and the work has just started. He closed with a general outline of the work planned by Denver business men.

This address was followed by a short talk by the Rev. E. H. Pratt of Kansas City, Mo., who gave a complete report of the Men and Religion Movement convention which has just closed in Kansas City.

Other Speakers.
Other addresses were made by Dean Edward S. Parsons, who talked on "The Men and Religion Movement From a College Point of View"; Dr. J. H. Franklin, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city; "The Men and Religion Movement From the Minister's Point of View"; General Secretary E. B. Simmons, "The Y. M. C. A.'s Relationship to the Men and Religion Movement"; District Superintendent F. H. Hollenbeck, who told of the work being done in Denver.

After the addresses the business session was held. A motion was carried that each pastor in the Pikes Peak region appoint five men from his congregation as chairman of committees of each of the five departments of the Men and Religion Movement, namely: departments of bible study, boys work, evangelistic work, social work and missionary work. Each chairman is given the power to appoint as many committeemen to help him in the work as he desires.

As soon as the chairman of the various committees appointed by the pastors have organized their committees and are ready for work another meeting will be held and the work of the year outlined.

Although much was expected of the meeting last night, the attendance and spirit was beyond all expectations of the promoters. E. B. Simmons said last night:

"The meeting was without doubt the most enthusiastic I have ever attended, and I firmly believe that this idea will mean more towards the salvation of many men here than anything else ever started in this city. The movement is national, and also is international. It has spread all over the east and is proving of a greater benefit to men than any other kind of a religious meeting ever held. If this great success can be had elsewhere, we certainly can have it here, and we mean to work until we attain it."

20 Men, Charged With Smuggling Chinamen Into U. S., Arrested

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—One of the largest Chinese smuggling plots unearthed by federal officials in years was revealed today when "Crappy" Nelson was arraigned before United States Commissioner Foote, charged with bringing Chinamen into this country from Canada. Twenty men charged with being implicated in the plot are under arrest in Chicago, New York and Detroit, where the band made its headquarters, according to a government agent who has been working on the case.

Those under arrest in Chicago include: "Crappy" Nelson; Lorne Stenhouse; Albert Arthur alias "Romeo Quelfetto"; Gordon Ferriss and Moy Sing, a wealthy Chinese merchant. There are 10 Chinese under arrest in New York, Frank Walsh is under arrest in Detroit.

Special Agent Danneberg, who made the arrests, was assisted in trailing the alleged smugglers by his wife, a bride of a few months. He says the band brought most of the Chinamen to this country by way of Windsor and Toronto, Canada, by breaking the government seals on freight cars a few miles from the border, putting the men in the cars and then sealing the doors again in such a manner that detection was avoided. Members of the band, he claims, received $1,500 for delivering a Chinaman from China to either Chicago or New York and that $300 was the amount charged for bringing a Chinaman from Canada to this country.

Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who, unless the governor of Virginia intervenes at the last moment, will meet death this morning in the electric chair at the state penitentiary at Richmond, for the murder of his wife on the night of July 18, on the Middlethorpe turnpike, while out automobile riding.

COLORADO SPRINGS MEN IN LAND DEAL

DENVER, Nov. 23.—General Bulkley Wells of Telluride, Duncan Chisholm and Chasloner B. Schley, both of Colorado Springs; R. Mc F. Doble of Denver and other Colorado capitalists have formed a company to reclaim 100,000 acres in San Miguel and Montrose counties at an estimated cost of $4,000,000. The lands to be reclaimed include Wright's mesa, East Paradox valley, Dry Creek basin, Mail Box park and Gypsum valley. The towns of Norwood, Naturita and Placerville are comprised in the territory named. The company has arranged to acquire, through the state land board, 40,000 acres under the Carey act and to buy upwards of 50,000 acres outright. Water for irrigation is to be taken from the San Miguel river near Placerville to the amount of 400 cubic feet a second. In conveying the water across Naturita canon a siphon 600 feet deep will be constructed, making it one of the largest in the world. The company's plans include the building of 60 miles of railroad.

SERVE RESTRAINING ORDERS

Deputy U. S. Marshals Reach All but One of 49 Cripple Creek Assayers Temporarily Enjoined

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 23.—Deputy United States Marshals Thomas Clark and E. G. Jeffers of Denver spent today serving restraining orders on the assayers who are named in a temporary injunction, secured by the Portland Mining company in a Denver court last Saturday in an effort to stamp out highgrading in this district. Tonight the marshals reported that they had served all but one of the 49 men against whom the temporary injunction is in force.

CHINESE OFFICIAL IS HOLDING FOREIGNERS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 23.—People from the province of Sze Chuan report that 150 foreigners have been unable to leave Chengtu. The governor is keeping the gates shut because he believed the presence of foreigners within the city is his sole protection.

NANKING, Nov. 23.—The revolutionary forces are slowly but surely enclosing Nanking. They are moving with the utmost deliberation, each position being entrenched. The body makes five miles daily. The fleet is expected to be in position below Nanking on November 25.

SNOW TIES UP MINING

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 23.—Mining operations in the district are more or less at a standstill today because of the snow. From eight to 10 inches of snow covers the ground, making teaming practically impossible. Dump operations necessarily have ceased, and until the frost is out of the ground this work will have to be suspended.

37 MEXICANS IN LAREDO ARRESTED

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 23.—The arrest of 37 alleged "undesirables," the discovery of a complete field signal service system for telegraphing or telephoning, and a hospital service outfit, were local developments today in the Mexican revolutionary situation. Early today officers made the rounds of various hotels and boarding houses, where alleged revolutionists or refugees were known to be making their abode, and by midday had taken the 37 men, all Mexicans, some of them wealthy, into custody.

Thirty-two of the men explained that their sojourn in Laredo was because of disturbed conditions in the southern republic, and were released. Immigration officials have asked Washington officials to authorize warrants for the deportation of the other five, including Francisco Aedeth, a former captain of rurales; Armando L. Rojas, former chief of police in Monterey; and Carlos Gonzalez, former chief of police of Tampasco, Mexico.

The signal service outfit was discovered in a hotel building within a stone's throw of the railroad station. Besides modern telegraph and telephone instruments, sufficient wire was found to provide for a complete field system. The hospital outfit was in the same building. Locally, the situation is tense, and developments of an interesting nature are not unlikely within the next 24 hours.

Arms in Express Car

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 23.—Federal authorities late tonight detained an express car containing 161 cases of rifles and ammunition, bound from New York to Laredo. The car is now under guard in the yards of the International & Great Northern railway. District Attorney Boynton says the car will be held until an investigation can be made.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Information was received at the war department of the capture by the army forces of 66 horses, 20 saddles, one field gun and a number of boxes of small arms in the vicinity of Laredo, Tex. They were seized after warrants had been procured.

NOTED JAPANESE DIES

TOKIO, Japan, Nov. 23.—Marquis Komura, ex-minister of foreign affairs and former ambassador to Great Britain, died this morning. Until the eve of the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war in 1894 he was charge d'affaires at Peking. In 1901 he accepted the foreign portfolio in the Katsura cabinet and was closely concerned in the conclusion of the first Anglo-Japanese agreement, which was followed by the negotiations with Russia which culminated in the war.

His name will also be remembered as Japan's chief plenipotentiary at the Portsmouth peace conference for his part in negotiating the second Anglo-Japanese treaty and the Sino-Japanese negotiations which were a corollary of the Portsmouth treaty of peace.

ITALY PLANS BLOCKADE

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Daily Mail's Constantinople correspondent says that the Russian and Austrian ambassadors have informed the port authorities that their governments have received notification of Italy's intention to blockade the Dardanelles.

BEATTIE TELLS FAMILY GOOD-BY

AMAZING SELF-CONTROL BROKEN FOR MOMENT

After Relatives Leave, Condemned Man Makes Quick Recovery

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 23.—Taking a pathetic leave of his immediate family, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., tonight made ready to take the final plunge into the unknown. Tomorrow, before the sun is an hour high, he will have paid the penalty demanded by the law for the murder of his young wife, last July. There is nothing to indicate that Governor Mann will act to stay the hand of justice.

For a few brief moments, today, Beattie broke down. This was when he took leave of his father and brother Douglas. When the parting came, the son laid his head on his father's breast and sobbed convulsively. One arm was flung across the father's shoulder, the other hand gripped that of his brother.

But he recovered quickly. The fortitude of the older Beattie had more to do with the recovery than the soothing offices of the Rev. Benjamin Deming, who has labored with the doomed prisoner. With Spartan self-control, the father kept his emotions in check, although the tears rolled down his cheeks and his lips twitched pathetically. No words were spoken, but the young wife-murderer must have felt the stern repression of his parent for his sob was strangled, and he straightened up.

"Good-by," he said and turned away. Neither father nor brother trusted to reply, but made their way from the penitentiary. When they enter it again it will be to claim the body of their kinsman.

Sister Visits Him

Hazel, the 16-year-old sister of the prisoner, and his two aunts drove to the state prison in a closed carriage, in the middle of the afternoon. They were in the death chamber a trifle more than an hour. When they emerged, Hazel was on the verge of collapse, while all three were violently agitated, and the eyes of each were red with weeping.

Their entrance and departure were observed by a motley crowd of several hundred persons gathered to witness the rumored visit of Beulah Blufford to the prison. The report proved to be untrue, the girl whose subtle power over young Beattie is said to have driven him to the killing of his wife, having been discovered in New York.

Only one minister labored with Beattie today, the Rev. Mr. Dennis. The Rev. John J. Flis, the young man's former pastor, was so worn out by labor and the emotional strain he has undergone that he did not put in an appearance. He is said to be an ardent supporter of the condemned man, and fully expects the condemned man to confess, provided he is guilty.

Spends Day in Prayer

The day was spent in prayer, save for the time occupied by the farewells of the family. Beattie is said to have declared his complete conversion and to have no fear that his peace was made with God. He told his spiritual advisers that he faced the hereafter with supreme confidence.

The sustained nerve of the condemned man is the wonderment and admiration of his guards. Following the pathetic farewells between himself and the members of his family, in which he broke down completely, he reverted to his placid demeanor, that is, the calmest of calm, and awaited the death watch had looked forward to the morning. When under the rule of the prison, lights were ordered out at 5 o'clock, Beattie showed every

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF WORLD ATTEMPT TO RE-LEASE JAILED MEN

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 23.—A riot following the arrest of members of the Industrial Workers of the World was barely averted here tonight by the timely arrival of the fire department, which drenched the would-be rioters and scattered them for the time being. Serious results are expected from tonight's clash. The Industrial Workers of the World have telegraphed to other cities in this state and in Oregon and British Columbia summoning aid and it is said 350 recruits are on their way here from Vancouver, B. C. alone. A force of 500 special policemen was sworn in tonight.

A crowd, carrying a red flag, appeared tonight in the streets they had been forbidden to use, and defied arrest. Then the mob was organized and marched toward the city hall to take from cells men imprisoned yesterday for violating street-speaking ordinances, who were awaiting trial. The city council was in session in rooms above the jail at the time, and when members were notified by telephone of the coming of the mob, Mayor Parks immediately summoned the police and firemen. The rioters were driven from one street to another, and finally gave up the battle.

Mayor Parks and Chief of Police Templeman have ordered the police to meet every train as it arrives here and drive back Industrial Workers reinforcements.

STEEL PROBERS IN OPEN FIGHT

STANLEY WILL TRY AND FORCE RESIGNATION

Will Appeal to House to Sustain Him Against Littleton of New York

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—An open fight in the house between Representative A. O. Stanley of Kentucky, chairman of the house special committee of inquiry into the United States Steel corporation, and Representative Martin W. Littleton of New York, a Democratic member of the committee, was assured today when Chairman Stanley said he would appeal to the house to force Littleton's resignation from the committee.

The fight, certain to be precipitated soon after the house convenes, will determine the future course of the steel committee.

The committee adjourned indefinitely yesterday following the sensational testimony of the Merritt brothers of Duluth, regarding their loss of millions in ore lands and other properties to John D. Rockefeller. This was done because Chairman Stanley was powerless to enforce continuance of the hearings under objections filed by attorneys for the United States Steel corporation that that corporation is now a defendant in a federal suit for violation of the Sherman antitrust act.

In considering the points raised by counsel, Representative Littleton took the position that nothing further should be done by the committee until the house had been consulted. Voting against Mr. Littleton were Chairman Stanley and Representative McGillicuddy of Maine and Reelf of Texas, the only other Democrats present. The Republican members present—Gardner of Massachusetts and Sanford of New York—voted with Littleton. Representative Bartlett, the fifth Democratic member, is ill at his home in Georgia. Representatives Young of Michigan and Sterling of Illinois, the absent Republican members, are not expected here until next week.

Mr. Littleton, who left the sessions of the committee yesterday, broke away with Chairman Stanley and will carry the question as to the future of the committee to the house. Mr. Stanley, after a conference today with Beall and McGillicuddy, decided to make the question a party issue, and he will call upon the Democratic majority to sustain him in opposition to Littleton and to force the latter's resignation from the committee.

CONFESSES TRAIN HOLDUP

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 23.—Frank Allen, arrested today as a suspect, in Peoria, Ill., tonight acknowledged to Sheriff Pleugh that he is one of the men wanted in North Dakota for holding up a Northern Pacific train last July, two miles west of Buffalo, N. D. He refused to give the names of the others. Allen acknowledges that he was connected with numerous train robberies in the northwest, but is not yet ready to make a full confession.

DROPS DEAD AS HE'S ATTEMPTING TO PLAY A GAME OF CARDS

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 23.—Thomas Graves, a solicitor for a coal company, walked into a clear store today and invited the clerk to play cards with him. When the cards were handed out Graves shuffled and cut them. Just as he completed the cut he fell dead.

Graves was 52 years old and came here because of tuberculosis. From papers found on the body it is evident he has relatives living in Richmond, Va., and in New York. The body was removed to the morgue. No autopsy will be held by the coroner.

Two Women Describe Husbands and Find They Married the Same Man

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Accused of having three known wives, and the police state at least one more whose identity is not now known, Nelson E. Browne was arrested today on a charge of bigamy. His arrest came as the result of an accident.

Wife No. 3 and wife No. 4, both of Los Angeles, were acquainted with another woman at whose home they had been invited to spend the afternoon. The similarity of names led to a casual description of husbands and this finally disclosed the alleged fact that both women had married the same man.

Straightaway they went to the district attorney's office, and Browne's arrest followed. The police, after investigating, gave out the following list of known wives accredited to Browne: Mrs. Nelson E. Browne, Portland, Ore. No. 1; Mrs. Nick Infante Browne, Los Angeles; No. 2; Mrs. Guadalupe Marquez Browne, Los Angeles; No. 3.

The police are continuing their investigation with the hope of finding the names of other women alleged to have married Browne.

Both Mrs. Infante Browne and Mrs. Marquez Browne identified Nelson E. Browne as their husband.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 23.—The Good Roads congress came to an end today with what many delegates still declared to be a division of opinion as to asking the government for federal aid.

ROCKEFELLER REPLIES TO CHARGES

SAYS LOAN TO MERRITT BROTHERS WAS NEVER CALLED, AS TESTIFIED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—John D. Rockefeller, in a statement given out tonight replied to the charges made by the Merritt brothers before the Stanley steel investigating committee regarding the methods used by Mr. Rockefeller in obtaining control of the Messabi ore mines and the Duluth, Messabi and Northern railroad, pointing out that these charges were denied under oath as long ago as 1895 in litigation over the Lake Superior consolidated iron mines.

He submits the text of a paper dated January 22, 1897, to which are attached the names of Alfred and Leonidas Merritt and "All the other members of the family" declaring themselves satisfied that neither Mr. Rockefeller nor his agents committed fraud or made misrepresentations in the matter in question.

SAYS FAMILY WAS SATISFIED

Mr. Rockefeller then sets forth what he says are the "facts in regard to the loans" to which the Merritts testified and denies that the loans in question were "ever called by him."

The statement which was issued tonight from No. 28 Broadway follows:

"In the matter of the evidence of the Merritt brothers before the Stanley committee in Washington, D. C., reflecting upon Mr. John D. Rockefeller in connection with some ore and railroad properties on the Messabi range, Mr. Rockefeller authorizes the following statement:

Mr. Rockefeller's Statement.
"Referring to the testimony of the Merritt brothers before the Stanley committee in which they charged fraud and misrepresentation by Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Gates in connection with the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines and that they were deprived of their interest in that company by means of a loan made by Mr. Rockefeller of $420,000 which he called during the panic of 1893, all of which statements were denied under oath in the United States court at the trial of the litigation in 1895, it would be absurd to try in the newspapers at this late date the issues in that case, but it is significant that upon the settlement which was made at the close of that litigation, both Alfred and Leonidas Merritt, the two who testified before the Stanley committee, together with all the members of the family, gave Mr. Rockefeller the following paper:

Withdraw Charges.
"Certain matters of difference have existed between the undersigned and Mr. John D. Rockefeller and a certain litigation has been pending between the undersigned Alfred and Mr. Rockefeller in which litigation it was claimed that certain misrepresentations were made by Mr. Rockefeller and those acting for him concerning certain properties sold by him, including the Lake Superior Consolidated mines. It is hereby declared that from recent independent investigation made by us or under our direction we are satisfied that the following paper:

SAYS DEPARTMENTAL BANKING PRACTICAL

Los Angeles Men Ask Amendment National and State Acts to Provide This

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—The speedy amendment of national and state banking acts to provide for departmental banking was urged for adoption in connection with other plans for monetary legislation by J. G. Saratorio, president of the Security Savings bank of Los Angeles, in an address today before the American Banking association. Mr. Saratorio said:

"A careful survey and study of the growth and development of capital stock in banking in the United States leads to the conclusion that the tendency is to generalize and not to specialize."

"The theory is entertained and the ideal may be that each institution should be organized to do either a commercial trust or a savings business."

Saratorio advocated national and state laws legalizing and regulating a dual or departmental business, compelling the segregation of assets and giving to the creditors of each department a first or prior lien on the assets of each department.

M'KINLEY REPRESENTED THE NEWER VIEWS, SAYS SENATOR LA FOLLETTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Senator La Follette treats of the Reed congress and new national issues in the installment of his autobiography in the current number of the American Magazine. He also recounts some of his personal recollections of William McKinley. In these two connections Mr. La Follette says in part:

"During these years in the eighties, while I was in congress, the lines between the progressive and 'stand pat' element were already beginning to appear. The alignment of forces was not so clear to me then as it is now, but I knew well enough where the leaders stood. Reed always used his great powers in defending the existing system. He sneered at those who desired new legislation. He closed one of his speeches with these words: 'And yet outside the patent office there are no monopolies in this country and there never can be. Ah! but what is that I see on the far horizon's edge, with tongue of lambent flame and eye of forked fire, serpent-headed and griffin-clawed? Surely it must be the great new chimera "trust," what unreasonable talk this is. A dozen men fix the prices for 50,000,000 free men? They can never do it. There is no power on earth that can raise the price of any necessity of life above a just price and keep it there. More than that, if the price is raised and maintained even for a short while, it means ruin for the combination and still lower prices for the consumers.'"

Represented Newer Views.

"I always felt that McKinley represented the newer views. Of course McKinley was a high protectionist, but on the great new questions as they arose, he was generally on the side of the public and against private interests."

"And this, the people instinctively sensed. I knew of my own knowledge that McKinley stood against many of the corrupt influences within his own party, that he even stood firmly against the demands of his best friend, Hanna."

"McKinley had no sooner been selected than the Wisconsin machine, backed strongly by Hanna, demanded the appointment of Henry G. Payne as postmaster general. And I, with others, brought forward the name of Governor Board of Wisconsin as candidate for secretary of agriculture. A few weeks before McKinley's inauguration and upon his invitation, I went to Canton to see him."

Abominated Lobbying.

"I explained to him what forces Payne represented in Wisconsin, and indeed he had already known Payne's work as a lobbyist in Washington in connection, especially with beef trust matters, and I know he abominated that sort of thing. But he told me that he believed no other man had ever been so strongly indorsed by prominent, influential politicians in every part of the country, as was Payne for that appointment. When it was nearly time for me to go, McKinley said: 'Bob, I may not be able to appoint Board, but I will say to you that Henry Payne shall not be a member of my cabinet.'"

"When I saw McKinley at the White house the following winter he told me how the effort to secure Payne's appointment had ended. He said that Hanna had come to him just before his final decision was made and said: 'You may wipe out every obligation that you feel toward me and I'll ask no further favors of you if you'll only put Henry Payne in the cabinet.' McKinley's answer was, 'Mark, I would do anything in the world that I could for you, but I cannot put a man

SEEK INDICTMENT OF PROMINENT PUEBLOAN

PUEBLO, Nov. 23.—Evidence was presented before the federal grand jury yesterday afternoon seeking to indict Andrew McClelland, owner of the Pueblo Leader, donor of the McClelland public library of Pueblo and one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of the Smelter city, on the charge of sending obscene letters through the mails. The woman to whom, it is alleged, the letters, 14 in all, were written, testified before the jury.

The effort to secure the indictment of McClelland by the grand jury is the outcome of the charges made against him recently in the Pueblo city council by Alderman Norbert Zink.

The charges which alleged McClelland, who for years has been the leading spirit in Pueblo's public affairs, to be guilty of gross immorality, threw the southern part of the state into a flurry of excitement.

A political fight is at the bottom of it all. McClelland, made accusations against Zink in his newspaper relative to a franchise and Zink retaliated by a public denunciation in which he declared that McClelland's name should be removed from the library because McClelland was a "moral leper."

JURORS OUT IN TAR CASE; HUNG JURY IS PREDICTION

LINCOLN CENTER, Kan., Nov. 23.—For more than six hours today the jury in the "tar party" case considered the testimony, but when the regular adjournment of the day session was taken, at 5 o'clock, no verdict had been reached. A recess of one and one-half hours was ordered, and at 7:30 p. m. the night session began.

Up to midnight the jury had reached no agreement.

"At no time during the deliberations will the jury be kept later than midnight, unless they wish to stay," said Judge Grover today.

As the hours rolled by this afternoon, and no verdict was reached, the opinion that a "hung jury" would result, an opinion that has been freely ventured ever since the trial began, grew stronger. The defense and the state admit that the cases against the three men are not equally strong, and that conditions for long discussion are favorable.

Once the jury examined closely the exhibits in the case, a handkerchief with which Mary Chamberlain rubbed some of the tar from her body. A man's handkerchief, also daubed with the mixture, found at the scene of the crime, and a can of paint. They also inspected the paint can.

Shortly after retiring for the evening session the jury returned to the court room and asked that the testimony of Chester Anderson and E. G. Clark be read again. Their request was complied with.

Ownership of Paint Not Proved.

The state failed to prove by direct evidence that the tar paint came from the Clark mill. The can was found in a buggy in which the men came from the scene of the tarring, it is said, and Everett Clark admitted on the stand that he had similar paint in his mill. The suggestion was also made today that the jury might have doubted whether the stain on the handkerchief was made by the same kind of paint that the can contained, in case the link between the paint can and the tarring episode would be severed.

The state attempted to prove that Sheriff Clark put the paint in the buggy.

E. D. Dillon, was chosen foreman of the jury. He is a wealthy farmer, with a broad, classical education.

Just before court adjourned tonight, Judge Grover announced that no sentence would be passed until some time tomorrow on any defendant in the tarring case.

The penalty for assault and battery, with which every defendant in the "tar case" is charged, is a fine of from $100 to $500 or a sentence of from one day to one year in the county jail. Both penalties cannot be inflicted in a single case.

CARDINALS DESIGNATE GIVEN HEARTY WELCOME

ROME, Nov. 23.—Cardinals-designate John M. Farley and Diomedes Falconio arrived here today. Many ecclesiastics had assembled at the station before dawn but the train containing the two American archbishops was late. Both the prelates looked well, notwithstanding the fatigue of their long journey.

The ecclesiastics present knelt and kissed the rings of the two cardinals-designate while many travelers and other persons about the station joined in emphasizing the cordiality of the reception. A characteristic note was given to the occasion by some of the clerics, carrying rolled American flags bound with white and yellow ribbons, papal colors. The warmest congratulations and respectful greetings were then presented to the two cardinals-designate by Mr. Thomas F. Kennedy, rector of the American college in Rome; Mr. Dennis O'Connell, auxiliary bishop of San Francisco; Dr. Bernard J. Mahoney of Albany, spiritual director of the American college; Father Dolan, rector of the English-speaking church of San Silvestro here; Father Hilary Jordan of St. Paul and other American clergymen.

The superior procurator-general of the Franciscan monks took Cardinal-Designate Falconio to the monastery of St. Anthony while Cardinal-Designate Farley, accompanied by Mr. Thomas F. Kennedy and Mr. Dennis O'Connell with Dr. Bernard Mahoney drove to the Hotel Bristol followed by the suite.

During the usual papal audience, Cardinal Merry Del Val communicated the arrivals of the two cardinals-designate and informed him of the cordial reception they had been accorded to them. The pope was pleased and said he was looking forward to receiving them soon. The secret consistory will be held next Monday and the public consistory will follow on Thursday.

At the secret consistory only the pope and the cardinals resident in Rome are present. At the public consistory three days later the ceremony is much more imposing, the new cardinals receiving their red hats from the pope.

KILLS SELF AT JAIL DOOR

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 23.—Theodore Stanislas, who was brought here last night from Ulster, N. Y., under a sentence of seven years in the penitentiary for arson, committed suicide in the city jail this afternoon.

Stanislas was worth $100,000. The house, for the destruction of which he was convicted, was blown up with gasoline while the attempt to set it on fire was being made.

His conviction resulted in a nervous breakdown. He fled from Lincoln in the latter part of August and was apprehended two weeks ago. On being brought back today he said he had paid $10,000 to police officers to have him released.

MUST AGAIN STAND TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, must again stand trial in the supreme court of the District of Columbia on charges of contempt arising out of the Bucks Stove and Range case. Justice Wright today handed down a decision overruling the motion of the labor leaders for a dismissal of the proceedings under the statute of limitations. The court held that contempt of court is not classed as criminal and consequently not subject to the bar of the statute of limitations.

PACKERS MEET REBUFF FROM CHIEF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Chief Justice White today refused to grant a stay in the trial of the Chicago beef packers, but referred the attorneys making the application to the entire bench with the statement that the matter was of too much importance for him to pass on individually. Attorney Miller announced that such an application to the entire court would be made at the first sitting, December 1.

John S. Miller and Levy Mayer, attorneys for the indicted beef packers in Chicago, arrived here today to begin the fight in the United States supreme court for a stay of the trial of the packers on charges of having violated the Sherman anti-trust law. Their first move was to go to the clerk's office of the supreme court to lodge the appeal from the order of Judge Kinsland of the United States circuit court at Chicago, denying the release of the packers on habeas corpus proceedings.

At the clerk's office arrangement was made by Mr. Miller to lay the matter before Chief Justice White at his residence at once.

Attorneys for the packers indicated that efforts will be made to have Judge Carpenter of the United States district court at Chicago, before whom the indicted packers have been summoned for trial on Monday, grant a further postponement until the supreme court passed on the application for a stay.

A Reasonable P. ea For The Stomach

If Your Stomach Is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work—Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try?

Not with drugs, but with reinforcement of digestive acids, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires potent nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

Chemical Laboratory, "Telegraph" address: Buffalo, London. Telephone No. 1109. Central, San Gallum, St. Petersburg, St. E. C.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), and have to report that I cannot find any trace of detectable or harmful poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adapted for the purpose for which they are intended. (Signed)

John R. Brooke, F. L. C., F. C. S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians, as is shown by the recommendations of 48,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water-brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery, and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will keep your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent box, or send to us direct for a free trial box. Package and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Co., 111 N. Marshall, Mich.

BRITISH CABINET ALMOST DISRUPTED

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The boldest pre-views in political circles that Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, will retire from the cabinet after his eagerly awaited exposition on foreign relations on November 27, in the house of commons, and that James Bryce, ambassador to the United States, will succeed him.

The resignation of the foreign secretary will almost certainly be handed to the prime minister should any lack of confidence be shown in his policy during the debate that will follow his statement Monday.

Sir Edward Grey, who, during the earlier years of his occupancy of the foreign office, received the almost unanimous support of all parties, has recently been the object of continuous attacks, not from the opposition, but from members of his own party, or rather the extreme radical element in that party. The secrecy with which the diplomatic negotiations have been carried on has aroused the ire of the Radicals, who lately have received some support from moderate Liberals.

Opening for Radicals.

The disclosure regarding the Anglo-German conversations with respect to Morocco and statements that these two conversations were the basis of the agreement given the Radicals another opening, and it is understood they are pressing for the retirement of Sir Edward, declaring "we won't be drawn into war without knowing the reason why."

The Radicals favor an Anglo-German understanding and accuse Sir Edward Grey of backing their efforts in this direction, either by his own design or by the influence of anti-German officials in the foreign office. Should Sir Edward resign, Viscount Halifax, secretary of state, and Richard McKenna, the home secretary, likely will resign also.

James Bryce is the man considered most likely to be his successor, as he would be supported by the entire party as he was when the Unionists attacked him for the part he took in the reciprocity negotiations between Canada and the United States.

Tact Understanding.

By a tacit understanding the Unionist leaders support the government's foreign policy, or at least refrain from criticising it. They, like the moderate Liberals argue, "Why turn a brilliant diplomatic victory into defeat by sacrificing the victor in order to procure the sword of vanquished Germans."

The lobby is full of rumors of other troubles besetting the government. It is said in London quarters that the cabinet is not able to satisfy John Redmond's home rule demands, which have increased through fear of the growing O'Brien strength in Ireland, and the Laborites are dissatisfied with the findings of the royal commission last August with respect to the railways strike. They blame the cabinet for failure to secure re-election of the unions.

The prime minister, it is true, is under moral obligation to avoid a crisis during the king's absence, but it may be beyond his power to do so.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—James Bryce, ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, tonight declined to make any statement concerning the report that he is slated to succeed Sir Edward Grey in the cabinet.

evidence of preparation to spend a quiet and restful period before he is summoned to the death chair.

Must Remove Body at Once.

The prison authorities will insist upon the family removing the body within a few hours after it is laid out in the mortuary room, which adjoins the death chamber. It was at first believed the body might be embalmed and kept in the penitentiary until arrangements could be completed for the funeral, but this belief was quickly dispelled.

While the funeral arrangements, if any have been made, have not been announced, it is generally understood that Beattie will rest in the family lot in Mauney cemetery, south of Richmond, only a pace or two from the grave of his wife. The burial probably will be early in the morning or by the waving light of lanterns, in order to escape the noisome crowds that are certain to gather at the grave.

Beattie will be taken from the death watch shortly after 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. The warden of the penitentiary, notwithstanding the law, will read to him the words ordering his death. Within a few moments after that solemn observance is completed, Beattie will have paid his full life for the murder of his wife.

ELK CROSS BOUNDARY

Soldiers Unable to Keep Stampeded Animals in Confines Yellowstone National Park

LIVINGSTON, Mont., Nov. 23.—More than 2,000 elk have crossed the northern boundary line of Yellowstone National park and are now roaming the country between Gardiner and Gardiner. Soldiers from Fort Yellowstone have been stationed for weeks along the boundary line keeping out an immense herd of elk from the park. The animals, however, have crossed. Many have been shot and more than 1,000 pounds of elk meat was brought here tonight.

INDIGESTION AND STOMACH TROUBLE ENDS

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Headache and Other Distress Will Go in Five Minutes.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of indigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or irritable grating. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

national departmental banking act is practically recommended by the commission.

"This phase of the suggested plan for monetary legislation should not be overlooked by the savings section. It is now we have become satisfied that no misrepresentation was made or fraud committed by Mr. Rockefeller or by his agents or attorneys for him upon the sale by him of any property to us or any of us, or to Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines, or upon the purchase by him from one or more of us of any stocks or interests in any mining or railway company or companies, or upon the pledge by us or either of us to him of stocks and securities belonging to one or more of us; and we hereby withdraw all such charges and claims and exonerate Mr. Rockefeller and his agents and attorneys therefrom."

Smith, ex-administrator estate of Cassius C. Merritt; Napoleon B. Merritt, Matilda T. Merritt, Eugene T. Merritt, Anna Merritt, Thomas A. Merritt, Jennie S. Merritt."

"The facts with regard to the loan were as follows:

Regarding the Loan.

"The loans aggregating $420,000, were made by Mr. Rockefeller in various amounts during the summer of 1893. Mr. Rockefeller never called these loans. In February, 1894, the Merritt brothers, being pressed by other creditors applied to Mr. Rockefeller for further assistance. Instead of calling his loans, as they charge, he furnished them an additional sum of $480,000. They sold him 90,000 shares of stock at $10 a share, amounting to $900,000, the several members of the family contributing different proportions. For one-half of this, more than enough to cover his loan to them, he gave to each of them an option to repurchase in a year at the price that they had sold to him, with six per cent interest.

Prior to the expiration of the year Alfred Merritt, one of the brothers who testified before the committee, brought suit against Mr. Rockefeller and he and several of the others never endeavored to exercise the option.

Another brother and nephew, at the expiration of the option, applied for an extension of it on the stock which was given and they subsequently took back their stock, amounting to 100,000 shares, and on the formation of the Steel corporation, sold to that company."

Leonidas Merritt Answers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Leonidas Merritt late tonight answered John D. Rockefeller. He declared that the paper mentioned by Rockefeller was voluntarily presented to the house Steel committee by the Merritt brothers, and that Rockefeller will not deny that Merritt took $200,000 worth of securities to New York and several months afterward left there penniless.

TRAIN IN FRANCE GOES INTO RIVER; 60 KILLED

SAMUEL, France, Nov. 23.—Sixty passengers, it is estimated, lost their lives through the plunging of a train into the river Thouet this morning owing to the breakdown of a bridge of the State railway at Montreuil-Bellay, in the department of the Maine et Loire.

The train, which had started from Angers, was traveling to Poitiers. It contained about 100 passengers. While it was crossing the bridge over the Thouet the structure, which had been greatly weakened by recent floods, broke, crashing with the whole of the cars into the swollen stream.

Many of the passengers who succeeded in getting out of the cars through the windows tied to the tops of trees, which bowed above the surface of the water. In most cases, however, they were quickly washed away by the rushing current.

All the boats in the locality had been carried off by the inundation so that it was impossible to do much in the work of rescue.

Nothing is available as to the number of victims or of those rescued. Ten corpses have been recovered from the river. Three of the cars were submerged, but the roof of a fourth car is still visible above the surface.

Eleven persons, including some children, are still clinging to this and thousands of people lined the banks watching the wreck, but impotent to render aid.

Several small boats made ineffectual attempts at rescue, but the crews ran perilous risks and the boats were nearly swamped on several occasions.

should not be sidetracked, but should be urged along with currency reform to bring about a complete financial system. Here is an opportunity in a direct and practical way to attain at least greater uniformity in saving laws and savings accumulations.

Several questions of interest to the savings banks of the country have been answered by more than 500 such institutions throughout the United States, according to a report of the committee, read today.

One of the questions asked was: "Have you ever had to sell bonds or call in mortgages in whole or in part to satisfy the demand of your people?"

The answers to this question, the report declares, refute the arguments often advanced in support of the proposition that a savings bank must sooner or later cash in its bonds to meet the demands of its people.

Six hundred and fifteen banks out of the 811 replied that they never had to sell a bond or call in a mortgage for such purposes.

MRS. PATTERSON ON STAND

for money, which she was unable to give him.

Made Infamous Proposal.

"One day he said to me," she told the jury, leaning forward in her chair, "I know how to fix it so neither of us will have to work. You go down to George's place. An attractive girl like you can get lots of money. I don't care what you do so long as I am in on it."

"Where is George's place?" her attorney asked.

"I don't know."

Attorney O. N. Hilton, Mrs. Patterson's counsel, had told the jury in his opening statement that "George's place" was a notorious place on the levee in Chicago.

"Some time afterward," Mrs. Patterson went on, under the guidance of her attorney, "Mr. Patterson came to me and asked me to make a proposition to Emil W. Strauss, of whose friendship for me he knew. He said: 'You tell Strauss to rent an apartment and live with you as his wife and have me live under the same roof and enjoy the same privileges.' I ordered him from the flat, and he gave me my first beating. He knocked me down with his fist and choked me and pummeled me while I was on the floor. I was in bed for two days."

Told Strauss of Unhappiness.

Then Mrs. Patterson told the jury how she had met Strauss casually on the street and had told him of the unhappiness of her married life.

"He said he pitied me," Mrs. Patterson continued, "and that he was going to Europe and wished he could take me along with him. I told Mr. Patterson, and he said: 'See Strauss and get some money.' Tell him I can take you to Europe with him if he gives me $1,500. And when I refused, he flew at me and called me vile names."

"Tell the jury just what he said,"

"I telephoned my husband from the hotel at which I was lunching with Mr. Strauss," Mrs. Patterson continued, "and arranged to meet him at the bank where I gave him the $1,500, which he deposited to his credit."

When she asked Patterson for the statement that Strauss wanted, she said, he called Strauss a name, and refused to give it to her.

Mrs. Patterson then described how Patterson had taken her to the train when she was to leave for her trip with Strauss, having first admonished her, she said, to get all the money she could, and having made her promise to travel under her own name, "Mrs. C. A. Patterson." She met Strauss on board the steamer in New York, she told the jury, and they went to Europe together. At Paris, she said, she found a letter from her husband.

"I have about come to the conclusion that you didn't intend to come back to me," she said the letter read, "and if you don't return, I'll follow you and kill you."

"I showed the letter to Mr. Strauss," said Mrs. Patterson, "and he gave me $5,000 and sent me back on the next steamer. I have never seen him since."

On her return to Chicago, she said, Patterson met her at the train. They had no more than set foot in their home, that he asked her how much money she had brought back, and when she told him she had brought none back, and asked him what he had done with the $1,500, he flew into a rage, and she said, administered a severe beating, from the effects of which she was confined to her bed for three days.

Mrs. Patterson went on to tell of quarrels and beatings that arose from her refusal to sell her electric automobile and give the money to Patterson. To two of these, she said, there was a witness, a Mrs. Campbell, who now lives at a cleaning and drying establishment in Chicago, near the Patterson home. Mrs. Campbell, it is said, is here to testify in Mrs. Patterson's behalf.

Special Prosecutor Horace G. Benson here interrupted Mrs. Patterson's narrative with an objection to the admission of such testimony. When the ruling was made in her favor, she betrayed no emotion. She will resume her story tomorrow morning.

The day was one of surprises. After outlining the story, Mrs. Patterson is to tell on the stand, in which her attorney said.

The brutality and unspeakable baseness of Patterson would be shown to the jury, Mrs. Patterson's counsel, in his opening statement, declared that the defense would show that

Mrs. Patterson Had Fired the Shots That Killed Her Husband After He Had Struck Her Twice and Knocked Her Down, and Kicked Her as She Fell, and That She Had Shot Him When She Was on Her Knees, Struggling to Get to Her Feet. This, She Declared, Would Be Shown by an Eye-Witness to the Entire Affair. His Statement Created a Decided Sensation, as the Only Eye-Witness to the Affair Heretofore Known Is A. B. Hughes, a Carpenter, who Testified for the State.

The state rested its case early this afternoon, after a day that was more or less disappointing to Special Prosecutor Benson. One witness called by him, Police Surgeon W. G. Mudd, proved to be an excellent witness for the defense, testifying that he had seen a bruise on Mrs. Patterson's cheek immediately after the shooting, and that she had told him that it was caused by a blow from her husband. This point the defense had tried vainly to establish by other witnesses.

Gave Husband $1,500.

"I telephoned my husband from the hotel at which I was lunching with Mr. Strauss," Mrs. Patterson continued, "and arranged to meet him at the bank where I gave him the $1,500, which he deposited to his credit."

On her return to Chicago, she said, Patterson met her at the train. They had no more than set foot in their home, that he asked her how much money she had brought back, and when she told him she had brought none back, and asked him what he had done with the $1,500, he flew into a rage, and she said, administered a severe beating, from the effects of which she was confined to her bed for three days.

Mrs. Patterson went on to tell of quarrels and beatings that arose from her refusal to sell her electric automobile and give the money to Patterson. To two of these, she said, there was a witness, a Mrs. Campbell, who now lives at a cleaning and drying establishment in Chicago, near the Patterson home. Mrs. Campbell, it is said, is here to testify in Mrs. Patterson's behalf.

Special Prosecutor Horace G. Benson here interrupted Mrs. Patterson's narrative with an objection to the admission of such testimony. When the ruling was made in her favor, she betrayed no emotion. She will resume her story tomorrow morning.

The day was one of surprises. After outlining the story, Mrs. Patterson is to tell on the stand, in which her attorney said.

The brutality and unspeakable baseness of Patterson would be shown to the jury, Mrs. Patterson's counsel, in his opening statement, declared that the defense would show that

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Restorative Wash have done for me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and I am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family. I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for me if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house."

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for irregular periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her."

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. Let every one I meet that I see by health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."

Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female ailments.

TUNNEL FLOW INCREASES; NOW IS 8,000 GALLONS

The last report made by Engineer T. R. Countryman to the tunnel company directors, from measurements made at the portal of the Roosevelt tunnel, is to the effect that 8,000 gallons of water is being drained each minute from the mines, or an increase of 100 gallons over the measurements taken last week. Mr. Countryman thinks that the C. & N. channel, the main water course of the district, has been tapped. The tunnel directors will hold a meeting in the near future, it is understood, to consider further drainage projects and the opening of additional territory. Future work, it is said, will be confined to the Fuller crosscut on the C. & N.

COACH STAGG PLEASED WITH EL V N'S SHOWING

(CHICAGO) Nov. 23.—The silence of Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago regarding the game with Wisconsin next Saturday has so encouraged football enthusiasts that the feeling is general among the students that the day's action will make a creditable showing in the final battle of the season.

It is known that Stagg is pleased with the showing of his men in practice since the Cornell victory. The players have shown lightning form in passing the ball and running as well as in interference work. Captain Madenbacher, Scruby, Kaskulke, Carpenter and Sauer have shown decided merit in the defensive work, devised for blocking up formations of the kind in which Kiekie Moll is expected to star.

Coach Stagg has told members of the team that it will require all their strength and cunning to make touch downs on Saturday and that they must be on the alert to take advantage of any Wisconsin mistakes which at any time may turn the tide in Chicago's favor.

M'FARLAND GETS READY FOR FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Packey McFarland settled down to his Thanksgiving day bout with "Harlem Tommy" Murphy. The Chicago boxer yards fighter appears to be in good shape and will not need much training to put him on an edge. A three-round bout with Willie Ritchie in his quarters yesterday showed he had a good sparring partner in the local man. Murphy is busy in his Oakland quarters, going through the usual routine.

No referee has been selected yet, but Promoter Goffroth hopes to settle that in a couple of days. Goffroth has high hopes of making a match between Ad Wolgast and McFarland. Wolgast is considering his offer. The proposition is a double one, with a fight with Knockout Brown on New Year's and the McFarland mill on Washington's birthday.

STAGG MAY OFFICIATE IN TIGER-D. U. GAME

DENVER, Nov. 23.—Alonso Stagg, head coach at Chicago university, will arrive in Denver next Tuesday and will be the guest of honor at the Chicago Alumni association, which will hold a banquet. In all probability Stagg will remain over for the football games on Thanksgiving day and may act as an official at one of them.

THE BILLIARD TOURNAMENT IS NOW ON—GREAT EXCITEMENT—NATIONAL BILLIARD HALL TONIGHT

OLD TIME OUT-CURVE THROWN INTO DISCARD

By SAM CRANE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Has the once famous out-curve been thrown into the discard?

That it has seems to be the general impression of the baseball players of the present day.

Shades of Arthur Cummings, Bobby Mathews and all those other old-timers who claim the discovery of the famous delivery, that revolutionary pitching in the early '70s, can that be possible?

It really looks as if the old round-house delivery had been cast into the discard junk pile.

In the recent world's series, where one would naturally expect a recent pitching science to be exhibited at its up-to-date style, it was plainly evident to close observers that the pitchers who figured prominently in the series and they were prominent, for that matter used the out-curve very seldom, and when they did it was merely as a bluff, not to fool the batter, but to get him worried, and then only when the pitcher had the batter in the hole.

I do not remember a wide out-curve of the old roundhouse variety being used in the entire series. There were variations of it, possibly, but only worked with a drop in oblation. And that was pitched so wide of the plate that it could not fool even a bush leaguer into biting at it.

Patters of today have apparently been as well educated to be aware of the out-curve that they cannot be fooled with it any more.

Of course, when there are such fast hitters as "Red" Murphy of the Giants, and other overanxious players at bat, any star pitcher will "feel" him on anything, and the old curve may be used under such conditions. But the pitchers of today seem to have discarded the delivery that raised havoc when such great twirlers of 20 years ago as Charles Radbourne, Johnny Wood, Tom Bond, Sam Rice, Ray Wild, Annie Knott, Ed Connelley,

Captain Howe of Yale, kicking the field goal that saved Yale from utter rout in the football match played at New Haven last Saturday in which Princeton came off the victor with a score of 6-3. The picture shows Howe's most effective kick of the day, the drop that gave Yale its three points in the second period. The arrow marks the ball just as it is about to sail over the bar between the uprights.

TIGERS AND DENVER ARE EVENLY MATCHED

Coach Rothgeb gave the Tiger regulars a stiff scrimmage workout last evening against the second and freshmen teams and heavy practice will be indulged in again this afternoon in preparation for the closing game of the season to be played against Denver university on Thanksgiving.

The coach will devote the remainder of the present week to scrimmage work and will then turn the Tigers over on Monday and Tuesday with light signal practice. The team will go to Denver Wednesday afternoon. Denver will doubtless give the Tigers one of the hardest games of the season, and already local football enthusiasts are arranging affairs so that they may go to Denver on Turkey day and see the last game of the season.

"Can Denver beat the Tigers?" This is a question that is asked by Clem Crowley, captain of last year's Denver team, and who knows the weaknesses and strong points of both elevens.

"It is certain that Broadway park will hold many who think they cannot," Crowley continues, "and then there are just as many who think they can. The only way to get a line on the two teams is to compare them, the players themselves and their performance this season—weight, speed, experience and coaching being taken into consideration.

"Colorado college has the same line as last year. Withrow as center is the best man at the hub position in the Rockies. He was on the winning eleven last year. He is big and fast and is often down under punts as soon as the ends. Besides this he is a sure passer. Black and Hedblom make a fine pair of guards. Both have experience, weight and speed in their makeup. Black was, in fact, fast enough to play fullback in all the games except the one against the Miners, in which contest he had been shifted to guard so as to strengthen the line. Hedblom is not as good as Black, but just the same is a valuable player to have. In Bowers the Tigers have one of the best tackles in the state. This player not only plays his own position, but helps ten others to play theirs. He is the life of the team.

"Captain Sinton on end is a star. The captain is a natural end, big enough so that he can box the heaviest tackles, and with long arms that he can use spearing forward passes out of the air. Thompson at the other end is also a heady player. He is not as large as Sinton, but he can get down the field under punts, and then he can grab forward passes. In the Mines contest he caught one and sprinted 25 yards for a touchdown.

"The backfield is composed of Meald, who is one of the best line plungers in the conference. It was this player that did the damage against the Miners. He is an experienced player, fairly heavy and fast. Putnam at quarter has used rotten headwork at times this year, but of late has played like a star. He is very successful in going through center for good gains. Deeds is a new man. He lacks experience and weight to make a star. Vandemoer is the fastest man in the squad and is also the punter. He has not shown the game so far this year that he is capable of, but 'Vandy' is going to make good against the Miners, and he will have to be watched.

"At center, Denver has Darden. He is not as good as Withrow in passing, but is just as speedy. Both have had about the same experience. Sterling and Palmer, the guards, are lighter than the Tiger pair and not as experienced. The tackles, Pike and Taylor, are both good players on defense. They are playing a good game at present and can be expected to give the Tigers a hard run. Russ and Schroeder at ends are as good as any two ends in the state. Russ is just as much of a star as Sinton, and Schroeder is better than Thompson. Both are experienced players.

"Brubaker or Jarge, the Denver quarters, are on a par with the Tiger man. They have had their good and their bad games this year. Brubaker is lacking in experience. At half, Koonsman, the bullet of the Denver boys, can be found. This player is the hardest hitting half that the Tigers will run up against. He is fast and heady and is full of football knowledge. Card, at the other half, is coming all the time. He is lacking in experience, but is one of those players that just falls naturally into doing the right thing at the right time. Volk, the Minister fullback, has had his effect on Mark, but just the same he is one of the best ground-gainers on the Denver team.

"Comparing the two teams, it will be seen that the Tigers have far the best line on their line than Denver. Their power on the aggregate are more experienced, have more weight and, taking them all around are better players.

"Looking at the backfield, just the opposite occurs. The Denver backfield is just as much better than the Tiger backfield as the Tiger line is over the Denver line. They balance against one another.

"Now, the question naturally arises, how are the coaches going to play the game with the above facts to their knowledge? Will Barry hit the Tiger line? Will Rothgeb use his shift on the weak line of the Miners? Will either Barry or Rothgeb can answer these queries, but one thing is certain, Rothgeb and Barry will have their plan of campaign mapped out before many nights. Every individual in both elevens have studied for his weakness and the weak spot in both elevens is going to be hammered. Koonsman and Hamill went through the Tiger line last year for five and 10 yards at a

D. U. HOLDS RALLY FOR TURKEY DAY CONTEST

DENVER, Nov. 23.—The largest and most spirited rally the Denver university has ever had was held yesterday noon in the chapel under the auspices of the student association. President Earnest Tuck of the students' organization was in charge and was assisted by Cheer-leaders Godesman and Sinclair. Six speakers were on the program. They were Coach Tom Barry, Arthur Edwards, of the class of '22; Dr. William Harrop, a member of the faculty; Charles Deredorf, '23, J. Stanley Edwards, a member of the athletic council of D. U., and Dean Manly, of the law school.

The entire student body of the liberal arts department also was present. The keynote of all the speeches was teamwork and training for the football team. Coach Barry spoke as a coach would talk to his men just before a game and the whole assembly left the hall with a new spirit and a determination to 'twist the Tiger's tail' Thanksgiving.

The coach said "Denver university has not been scored on by a Rocky mountain team, and we don't intend to let the Tigers break this record for 1911."

Coach Barry started his audience by saying that "fraternities are a curse to any institution. When they try to have more men on the team than their rivals, regardless of their men's ability, they do more harm than the serious injury of a star player. They have an opportunity to do a great deal of good, if they see fit to use their power in the right direction, such as keeping a man up in his work and keeping him from breaking training."

COURSE IN MATRIMONY IN CALIFORNIA SCHOOL

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Nov. 23.—A course in matrimony is included in the curriculum at the Gardena Agricultural High school. While partly hidden under the name of "household economics," five classes of girls daily take advantage of examination in the care of babies, mothercraft and domestic economy. Boys will be given a somewhat similar course beginning next year.

The girls are taught such plebeian matters as how plumpers are supposed to do their work and are shown in cash just how much plumpers should be paid.

AUTO WRECKED NEAR DENVER

DENVER, Nov. 23.—A high power automobile containing two women and three men plunged from the Colorado Springs road, two miles south of Wolhurst, near here today, turned over twice and ended its flight at the foot of a 40-foot embankment. The occupants of the car were hurled some distance and all escaped injury save W. H. Moore, manager of the Metropolitan hotel at Fort Worth, Texas, who was painfully bruised. The other occupants of the car were Mrs. W. H. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Townsend of Denver and the chauffeur.

D. U. HOLDS RALLY FOR TURKEY DAY CONTEST

DENVER, Nov. 23.—The largest and most spirited rally the Denver university has ever had was held yesterday noon in the chapel under the auspices of the student association. President Earnest Tuck of the students' organization was in charge and was assisted by Cheer-leaders Godesman and Sinclair. Six speakers were on the program. They were Coach Tom Barry, Arthur Edwards, of the class of '22; Dr. William Harrop, a member of the faculty; Charles Deredorf, '23, J. Stanley Edwards, a member of the athletic council of D. U., and Dean Manly, of the law school.

The entire student body of the liberal arts department also was present. The keynote of all the speeches was teamwork and training for the football team. Coach Barry spoke as a coach would talk to his men just before a game and the whole assembly left the hall with a new spirit and a determination to 'twist the Tiger's tail' Thanksgiving.

The coach said "Denver university has not been scored on by a Rocky mountain team, and we don't intend to let the Tigers break this record for 1911."

Coach Barry started his audience by saying that "fraternities are a curse to any institution. When they try to have more men on the team than their rivals, regardless of their men's ability, they do more harm than the serious injury of a star player. They have an opportunity to do a great deal of good, if they see fit to use their power in the right direction, such as keeping a man up in his work and keeping him from breaking training."

The alumni who spoke were not in favor of resuming the athletic relations with Boulder. That did not influence the undergraduates, who are strongly in favor of a post-season game between the two universities. Dean Manly said, however, that such a game is possible and that the governing body is waiting for the U. of C. officials to act. He called attention to the fact that in many of the games this fall Denver has the ability to run the ball down the field to the five or 10-yard line, but they lack the "pep" to take it over. He laid this to the lack of teamwork and careful training.

Never in the history of the university have such elaborate plans been laid for a Thanksgiving day game. A big parade of 50 automobiles, carrying the fair coeds, will start from the downtown colleges a week from this morning at 10 o'clock. This will be followed by a procession of all the men in the university. They will go through the main streets until 12 o'clock, preceded by the college band of 20 pieces. Each loyal Denverite will wear a "D U Rooter" tag from now till the big game and if any citizen wants to know anything about the game or the prospects, just ask one of these tagged students.

Two new songs were submitted by Evelyn Mosner and Florence Toup. They are adapted from popular songs and are made a decided hit with the rally audience yesterday. The men and women will be separated for the game and the cords will be led in cheering by two from their number. Cheer-leaders Godesman and Sinclair will lead the men.

The team practice last night was held in the "gym" on account of the weather. Signal work and a football talk by Coach Barry took up the afternoon. An X-ray of Koonsman's shoulder showed that there were no bones broken and that fact relieved the minds of the Ministers. It is badly bruised and sprained, however. The other members of the team are rapidly rounding into condition. Russ will be up in his studies by tomorrow and Ben Barber's knee is nearly well.

The main attraction in the athletic line in the Pike's Peak region this week will be the annual game between the Terrors and the team from the gold camp, which is billed for Washburn field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. This game should be a thriller, and will be one of the two remaining chances Terror fans will have to see the team in action this fall, their only other game being the one on Turkey day with Longmont.

The team that will represent the Terrors when they clash with the Victor team will be the strongest that has represented the Terrors this season. The factor that is responsible for this radical change is the return of Howard Fowler to his position at quarterback. With "Blondy" back in the lineup the team has taken on new life and has shown more pep this week than at any time before. The return of Fowler, I think, has strengthened the team fully 50 per cent. As a field general Fowler has no equal in the state interscholastic ranks and besides, being a good field general he is a dangerous with his toe and in open field running.

Coach Coffin has had the Terrors working the entire week on the perfection of open style plays. It is expected the team will use this style of attack the greater part of the Victor game, which should bring the Fowler-Taylor combination into the limelight. The Terrors have many open plays, but their field generals, since Fowler was hurt, have been afraid to use them to any extent. The Terrors realize that to win from Longmont they must use this style of play.

Several of the players were discussing the showing the team had made this year, when Captain Phil More gave out the following statement:

The Terrors have not played up to their standard this season because of the fact that they had not had the pep and ginger necessary to win football games. But you may rest

CORNELL RUNNERS MAY ENTER FOREIGN EVENTS

ITHACA, N. Y. Nov. 23.—A movement is on foot among Cornell University runners and it is expected that the jump will be made to make an effort to send the Cornell cross-country team abroad next summer to meet English teams and possibly continental teams about the time of the Olympic games. Thus far no negotiations have been entered into the work of date being to arouse interest here and abroad.

It is stated that if a cross-country team is among the events scheduled for the Olympic games a good many of Cornell's best cross-country runners will try for the American team, but part of this it is thought will while to make an effort to send the pick of the Cornell men abroad. Sentiment among athletic leaders in the university is that the Cornell distance men are the equals of the English runners and the believers in the Ivy League school are very anxious to test it against foreigners.

TERRORS PLAY VICTOR TEAM HERE TOMORROW

By IRVIN-BRUCE

The main attraction in the athletic line in the Pike's Peak region this week will be the annual game between the Terrors and the team from the gold camp, which is billed for Washburn field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. This game should be a thriller, and will be one of the two remaining chances Terror fans will have to see the team in action this fall, their only other game being the one on Turkey day with Longmont.

The Terrors realize that to win from Longmont they must use this style of play.

Several of the players were discussing the showing the team had made this year, when Captain Phil More gave out the following statement:

The Terrors have not played up to their standard this season because of the fact that they had not had the pep and ginger necessary to win football games. But you may rest sure that we are going to trim the Victor team and give Longmont the hardest battle they have had this season.

Not only is Captain More of this opinion, but every member of the team takes the same view. The Victor game and the one with Longmont will finish the High school football career of Captain More, Lee Worth and Richard Johns. These three stars are determined that the closing games of their High school days shall be crowned with victory.

If the team shows the class of ball it has been playing this week it will win the Victor game and give the champions from Longmont a hard fight. The game will be called at 2:30 sharp, so that the team from the district may catch an early train. Tickets for the game may be secured at the following places: The Powell-Dorser Sporting Goods company, W. I. Lucas, 51 cigar store, and the city ticket offices of the Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado & Southern railroads. The Terrors will line up as follows: Taylor, left end; Worth, left tackle; More, left guard; Hall center; Eubank, right guard; Richardson, right tackle. Ahl, right end; Fowler, quarterback; Nilong, left half; Schockie, right half; Johns, fullback.

JOE CARNEY TO PLAY BILLIARD CHAMPION

DENVER, Nov. 23.—Joe Carney, the billiard player who was recently defeated by Fred Eames of this city, has gone to New York to meet Alfred De Oro in a match for the three cushion championship of the world. He will stop off at Kansas City to play a few exhibition games.

The match for the championship will take place in New York some time next month. Should Carney win the title he will return to Denver where he will insist on the next game for the championship 2/2 played.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1911.

THE TOWN WE LIVE IN

ALL things considered, Colorado Springs is "the best town on the map." It is not an industrial center, it is not an agricultural center, but it affords in larger measure than any other place the conditions that make life best worth living. It enjoys an ideal climate and its scenic environment is incomparably more alluring than that of any residential city which can be considered in the same class.

Colorado Springs wants more people to enjoy these advantages that is, it wants more population. This is not a desire for mere bigness, a desire to possess a large population simply for the sake of boasting of large figures. It is due to a realization that larger population means more thorough development, increased revenues to be expended in public improvement and in the building of a cleaner, better and more beautiful city.

Everybody admits that Colorado Springs ought to go forward at an even faster pace. Everybody is willing to do what he can to attain this end. But inevitably differences of opinion come to light as to how best this advancement may be attained. However, all of us are agreed on one point it is necessary to spend money. The vital interests of a city cannot be promoted without a liberal expenditure of money, and at the same time of energy and brains. Money must be spent for public improvements, and in this day those improvements which make for beauty are of scarcely less importance than those which aim only at utility. Again, it is necessary to spend money liberally to place a city's claims to recognition before the world at large.

Nature has been kind to Colorado Springs. This city is situated in an environment more thoroughly delightful than that of any other place of which we have knowledge. As a summer resort Colorado Springs is unsurpassed; as a winter resort its attractions appeal especially to those who prefer life in the clear, sunny, invigorating outdoors to life in the enervating atmosphere of a sub-tropical climate. Those who know Colorado Springs best, from actual experience covering years of residence within its borders, and who also have traveled sufficiently to be able to make intelligent comparisons, contend that as an all-the-year-round resort it is far ahead of any competitor.

It is not an unusual thing for visitors here people who have traveled the world over and therefore speak with some degree of authority to observe that it is nothing less than a crime that a city which possesses such extraordinary charms to the visitor and the homeseeker is not more thoroughly advertised throughout the nation. It is true that Colorado Springs has received a great deal of valuable advertising both through its own efforts and those of the railway companies, but it is also true that it never has been advertised as thoroughly as it deserves to be.

The proper advertising of Colorado Springs is only one of several problems the solution of which is the same—more money. This town needs more money for many things. It needs more money for the proper conduct of its city government. With every department clamoring for more funds with which to do public work which everybody knows is imperatively needed, we find that the available revenues are wholly insufficient to meet the demands. The only answer is that more money must be raised by taxation. The 20-mill levy cannot be increased, but there is reason to believe that a more equitable tax valuation would yield a much larger revenue.

Similarly, the Chamber of Commerce finds that its usefulness is seriously impaired by the want of sufficient income. Its activities are working unselfishly to promote the welfare of Colorado Springs, but at every turn they find themselves handicapped in this way. With twice the present membership if the organization they could accomplish far more than twice as much good for the city.

WORK OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

In this case the answer is the same—more money must be forthcoming. Under the present plan most of the members are paying as much as could be expected of them, but a minority are paying much less. In similar organizations in other cities the amount of contributions paid by members is to some extent proportionate to the member's ability to contribute and the importance of his interests in the community. This, we believe, is a proper basis, and if this system were adopted here it would yield a larger revenue without imposing the slightest hardship on anyone.

The Chamber of Commerce is carrying on many activities along various lines, all aiming toward the greatest advancement of the welfare of Colorado Springs, and all requiring the expenditure of money. To bring these projects to a successful conclusion and to take up the various other projects which are constantly presented, and likewise carry them through, is not an easy matter even when abundant sinews of war are at hand. To attempt these things with insufficient funds is often a discouraging task for the men who are giving their time and energy to this work.

Thank heaven, there are precious few knockers left in Colorado Springs, but all of us, whether we happen to be knockers or boosters, are at heart anxious to see the city advance along the best lines. Whatever disagreement there may be it is entirely a matter of men and methods. All of us can unite on the fundamental proposition that intelligent, energetic work must be done to make Colorado Springs a better, busier and more beautiful city, and that this cannot be accomplished without hard work strongly backed by money. Within the last year there has been no lack of work and workers. The thing needed now is money, and every citizen of Colorado Springs who is a booster in fact rather than in pretence must recognize this important truth in the only real and effective way.

MILES OF CLOTH.

From the Chicago Post.
The French war ministry announces in a little item in Le Temps that it is prepared to sell some 158 kilometers of the kind of cloth from which army uniforms have been made since 1830. The old red trousers and blue blouse of the army of France are to be replaced by the "mignonne green" or the new uniforms. Think of it! Over 110 miles of cloth have been kept on the shelves of the army supply headquarters simply as an adequate "stock" against the current needs. Usually the layman estimates the cost of war in terms of slaughtered human beings or ruined property. But the thought of 110 miles of cloth, constantly kept on hand, gives a new vividness to any conception of the enormous expenses of a European standing army. The mind runs on instinctively to conjure up millions of square feet of leather and uncounted trillions of gilt buttons.

We ought to be thankful every day that this country stands outside the circle of continental militarism.

JUSTICE FOR THE CAPITAL.

From the Knoxville Journal and Tribune.
All the people of the entire country should, and those who think and have anything of national pride do, desire that good care should be taken of our national capital. Congress pays half of the expense of doing the business of the city, the taxpayers of Washington the other half. The people all over the country are willing to pay their share toward making of Washington the best governed city in the world and as good as the best in all of its appointments. What is paid out of the national treasury for the good of Washington is not or it should not be paid grudgingly. Being, as we are, one of the greatest nations in the world, we should have a national capital that would attract the admiration of all the world. It is that now, but if there has been anything left undone that would beautify the city, that would add to its sanitary conditions, that would make it a model city for its homes—and for the character of its local government, why, it should be done. The country will not stop to count the cost, provided what is appropriated is judiciously expended. There may be men in congress who would cut down the appropriations for the benefit of the capital city, who would adopt a policy of stinginess. If there be such we do not believe for a moment that they represent the will and wish of the American people.

The man whose appetite is fine, who can, when he sits up to dine, devour a sundry chop of sirloin and finish up on pie and cakes, who goes clean through the bill of fare before he rises from his chair—that man should envy none on earth—the gods were smiling at him. Appetite! He may be doomed to human toll—to pushing plowshares through the soil, to preying with hungry jaws, to sawing horns from muley cows, to digging gumbo in a ditch—but he can view the idle rich, and he can look on sceptered kings, and say: "I'm better off by jings! For what avails all wealth or pomp if one is not inspired to romp when sounds the glad-some dinner horn? I'd rather chew an ear of corn, or eat a shoulder of a ham or fill myself with prunes and jam, and know I can digest the same, than bark in wealth or roll in fame." This world with sorrow is replete for those who wince when they must eat, who have to exercise the jaw on predigested chop and straw, who look with horror on a roast, as though it were their father's ghost. But life is full of wholesome joys for him whose stomach, bold and free, is always ready for a chop, takes what it gets and looks for more.

THE DAILY CHIT-CHAT—BY RUTH CAMERON

"Yes, I know she's a nice girl. I think I'd like her just rate if she wasn't one of those maddening self-congratulators."

So Molly, the little stenographer lady, described a new acquaintance when the wants-to-be-cynic inquired for the third time why she didn't seem like "such a thoroughly nice girl."

"Now what might that be?" inquired the wants-to-be-cynic scornfully. "Really, Molly, to tell the truth, I think you are jealous of her."

Molly's blue eyes opened alarmingly wide—it is a trick she has when aroused—she parted her lips as if to speak, then shut them tight and gave the fire, in front of which she was sitting, a vigorous dab with the tongue.

"Oh, I didn't mean jealous of anyone in particular," amiably explained the wants-to-be-cynic, who by the way has been paying a good deal of attention to the lady under discussion. "I just meant jealous of her in a general way, because she is so pretty. Other girls never like a girl who is very pretty."

"That," said Molly, "is absurd. I should think that you, who pretend to be a real deep student of human nature, would know better than that. That is one of the silly things that men have been saying with no grounds at all for centuries. I don't doubt that Adam said it to Eve about Cain or Abel's wife. The truth is that girls admire a pretty girl almost more than men do. Remember Jane Wiley at school? She was one of the prettiest girls I ever knew and half the girls in school were devoted to her. Of course, girls don't like a silly, conceited, disagreeable girl and when a pretty girl gets that way they drop her. But as for this idea that whenever a girl doesn't like some pretty girl it's because she's jealous of her prettiness," concluded Molly, with a grand finale of mixed pronouns and a lip quivering from the warmth of her feelings and the injustice of the accusation, "why that's all nonsense."

Molly had been sitting before the fire with her back to the wants-to-be-cynic during this oration, consequently he had not seen the quivering lip, and he had opened his mouth for a teasing response, when the lady—who-always-knows-somehow cut in cleverly with a reference to the original characterization of the new acquaintance.

"But, Molly, what is a 'self-congratulator'?"

"My gracious," said Molly. "It's evident you haven't met her or you wouldn't have to ask. Why, you know what I mean—one of those irritating people who are always patting themselves on the back; praising themselves and their belongings and everything they have anything to do with."

"For instance, when she came into the office this morning, I said her hair looked nice. She patted it and said, 'Yes, I have remarkably thick hair and I'm so glad it's curly. I do hate straight hair!'"

"Then she pulled her waist down and said, 'How do you like my new waist?' and then before I could answer, I think it fits splendidly. The dressmaker says it's easy to fit me because I have such a good figure!"

"A little later she showed me her hands to see how beautifully they were manicured, told me she did them herself and that she thought it was quite wonderful when she never had taken any lessons at all, that she could make them look as well as any professional manicure."

"She never buys anything without congratulating herself on her discrimination and taste in getting such artistic, pretty things so reasonably. She never says anything new without patting herself on the back because it fits so well and looks so well on her. She never does a piece of work in the office without showing it to someone and saying how good it is."

"Most of the time the things she says are true and I'd probably say them myself if she'd give me a chance, but she never does. Of course, she is terribly pretty, capable and smart. It would be splendid to be half so clever and nice to look at." Here Molly paused, joked the fire a moment, looking very wistful, and then burst out to everyone's surprise. "Oh, big sister, you don't suppose I am jealous of her."

"Molly," quoth the wants-to-be-cynic after we had stopped laughing. "Molly, you are the limit."

And oddly enough, the words that sound like a slangy expression of disgust as I write them, sounded strangely gentle, and almost tender, as the wants-to-be-cynic said them.

Dissect and Its Cure
By EDDY WOLFF.
HYDROPHOBIA

Hydrophobia is an acute, infectious disease of warm-blooded animals. It is transmitted to man most often by the dog, the cat and the cow.

The disease has been known since the most ancient times. It was described in the fifth century before Christ. It is found in every part of the world. The nature of the infecting virus is as yet unknown, but it has been ascertained that whatever causes the disease is carried by the saliva of the infected animal. Thus the bite of the dog and the cat infects man, since in the act of biting saliva is forced into the wound. A cow may drop a bit of her saliva into the milk as it is in the bucket, and thus infect many people.

The period of incubation in man varies widely. It may require all the way from three weeks to six months for the disease to make itself known, after it has once been contracted.

The first stage of the disease is accompanied by pain or numbness in the wounded part, and there may be irritability and nervous depression. In the second, the stage of excitement, the nerves are strung to their tightest pitch, respond enormously to any slight stimulus, even going into the convulsive stage at the slightest excitement. The throat muscles become rigid. The temperature rises, and the patient may become maniacal. Then follows the stage of paralysis, when there comes unconsciousness, and finally death.

When a child is bitten by a dog, the dog should never be killed. Instead, have the wound cauterized by a doctor before an hour has elapsed. Then safeguard the dog. Hydrophobia invariably kills dogs afflicted with it. If the dog dies, the physician can prescribe the proper treatment for the patient. If the dog lives, he did not have rabies, or hydrophobia, and no alarm need be felt.

The old superstition that killing the dog saved the bitten person's life has no truth.

Little Bobbie's Pa By WILLIAM R. KIRK

When Ma was visiting with sum friends oaver in Plainfield last Sunday she met a Scientist man & his wife, the naim of the man was Professor Spek Von Guesenwork. Ma told Pa that the Professor had spent all the best years of his life in looking a thousand years into the future, & trying to figure out what a man of a human being wud see—determine when the thousand years has passed. He has sum pictures drawn on a lot of sheets of paper, Ma told Pa, & Ma & his wife is cumming oaver tonight to pass a pleasant evening with us. He is going to bring his album of funny looking people along.

Sure-enuff, at 8 o'clock Professor Spek Von Guesenwork & his wife came to our house. The professor was a funny little fat man with two (2) pairs of glasses on, & his wife was very large & tall. I was glad that the professor had on two pairs of glasses. It must be awful to look at such a homely wife without no glasses to make her look pretty.

I am glad to meet you & yure charming wife, professor, sed Pa. I have devoted the best years of my life to Sciens, sed Pa, & I am always glad to meet a thinker. My wife tells me that you are studying a thousand years ahead, sed Pa, & that you have a picture of a person who you have drawn, showing the way we will look then.

Ches, sed the professor, I have drew some pictures, but the picture is not yet copyrighted, & how do I know that you will not steal them, airtight? In human nature I have not much faith got, sed the Professor to Pa. But I will draw for you and the Frau one head of a man, sed the professor, showing how a man will look a thousand years from now.

You see, the professor sed to Pa, on this face which I have drawn for you and yure Frau, is mostly upper-head. Lower head, such as chaws and teeth, will be needed not one thousand years from now. Behind the mouth there is not teeth, because then there will be nothing to chew. Hair is a little remaining, aber nicht viel. So, und dere it is, sed the Professor.

That is a handsome face, sed Pa, all except the lower part of it. The chin is a kind of little, sed Pa, I feel that what you I-magined cud do to that kind of a chin I-I-I happened to be born a thousand years before that time of man stone running conventions & politicks.

I do not know Herr Langford, sed the professor, he is too, a scientist also?

Tes, sed Pa, he too, is also a scientist. But that is neither here nor there, sed Pa. Professor, I am afraid that it will be more than another thousand years before the jaw & the chin is slim like a knife edge. Give me yure pencil, professor, sed Pa, & I will draw you a picture of a man's head.

That, sed Pa, is not a handsome face, I will admit. It is not the kind of a countenance that you wud like to have turned on you in a dark alley, but take it from me sed Pa, it will be more than a thousand years before that type of man stone running conventions & politicks.

I don't think so sed the professor. All right, sed Pa, you do not have to think so, but I wish we cud both be alive a thousand years from now.

The Great Conflict A Half Century Ago Today

NOVEMBER 24, 1861.

Colonel Moore engaged in a heavy skirmish with a Confederate force at Lancaster, Missouri. Learning that Colonel Woodwards with 100 men was surrounded at Lancaster, 18 miles away, and was in need of immediate relief, Colonel Moore left Memphis, Scotland county, in the morning with 400 men and made a forced march. He came upon the enemy at Lancaster late in the afternoon and attacked at once, deploying his forces in the corn and brush. Fighting was brisk for half an hour, when the night closed down. The Confederates, numbering 420, were completely routed. They lost 13 killed, 17 wounded and many prisoners.

Captain Moreau's Union Cavalry, accompanied by General McCook's body guard, went to Buckner's farm, Green river, a few miles above Muncieville, Ky., and took possession, seizing grain, corn, wheat, stock, etc. Buckner was an active and effective partisan leader of the Confederates. The gunboats Lexington, Augusta, Pocahontas and Seneca, steamed from Port Royal to Tybee Island, at the mouth of the Savannah river, to attack the Confederate forts there. They opened fire on the works, but received no response. Landing parties discovered the forts had been evacuated. The Federals took possession.

Mason and Slidell, the Confederate commissioners taken from the British steamer Trent by Captain Wilkes of the San Jacinto, were confined in Fort Warren. (Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

The ladies of the Congregational church gave a musical and literary entertainment in the church.

The Pilot Fish
A Whale of a Tale
By WEX JONES

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Captain Cobblestone lives aboard his yacht, the Shark, with his three daughters, Cissie, Euphrosyne and Pauline. Ole Oleson, the yacht's sailing master, has acted as governor to the girls, and they have, in consequence, acquired a fashionable nautical manner. Ciderpress, a mysterious stranger, has followed the Shark from port to port in his canoe, Daffydill, for three years, sending home-made pastry to Cissie at every opportunity.

On reaching the beach, Ciderpress said, "Can you swim to the Shark, it's only five miles, and the current against us isn't very strong?" "Awa, you lubber," vivaciously responded Euphrosyne. "I can do that with one hand."

And as the two swam out in the cold green water they felt so much alone that they kissed each other.

When Euphrosyne got aboard, old Captain Cobblestone was wrathful. "That infernal lunatic," he exploded, "not to bring back the duck. And I could have cooked them a la Maryland. We are off to Havana tonight."

Many bets were made that the Daffydill would not be in Havana within a week after the Shark's arrival. Everybody aboard expected to lose their pilot-fish this time, all but Euphrosyne, who bet a dollar against $10.000 with her cholerick papa that Ciderpress and his Daffydill would not be 30 minutes behind the Shark.

When the powerful Shark entered the harbor, the Daffydill was quickly swinging to a cork anchor in the harbor.

"The scoundrel!" muttered Cobblestone: "he must have shipped his infernal Daffydill aboard one of the Ward liners."

"Sure pon," murmured Euphrosyne, "that's what I was betting you." "It's no good trying to stake him."

Drunkard's Island
from Temperance.

"Drunkard's Island" is the name by which the Salvation army's latest colony for insubordinates, off the coast of New Zealand, is known to passing mariners. Its real name is Pakatoa.

The Salvation army has recently completed plans for isolating confirmed drunkards on a couple of islands, one for men and one for women.

Only one island is available at present, but the success of this settlement has been such that the New Zealand government and the Salvation army may acquire another for women.

The only communication with the main land is by the Salvation army motorboat, and the residents have no opportunity of reaching a public house. All spirits and alcohol in any form are forbidden on Pakatoa, and the colonists lead the simple life on a fruit diet, without drugs or policemen.

The New Zealand government recently passed an act giving magistrates power to close the saloons who have beat four times convicted of drunkenness to Pakatoa.

The residents work at market gardening, fruit culture, frame making and the manufacture of children's toys.

SPECIAL FEATURES AT MAJESTIC TOMORROW

The Sullivan and Considine circuit has never booked better billings than those the Majestic is getting. These days and the new show which opens tomorrow afternoon is no exception to the rule. On the contrary it will impress upon local vaudeville patrons the constantly improving standard of the S. and C. offerings, for it is seldom that a more attractive list of acts is seen on one program.

The headliner is one of the most amazing and pleasing animal acts not only in this country but in the world, and it was picked out by an S. and C.

entertainer is well established. The Majestic photo plays a new flex and a comic, and the orchestra music will add to the entertainment value of this fine bill.

OPERA HOUSE PICTURES TOMORROW

The splendid motion pictures which have been a feature attraction at the opera house all this week, will not be shown at this theater today because of the appearance of the famous Mormon Tabernacle choir at the opera house tonight.

The motion pictures will be shown tomorrow afternoon and night for the agent in Berlin as the best to be secured from Europe where such acts reach their highest excellence. The troupe, which is known as Klutina's Animals, includes cats, dogs, pigeons and rabbits, and all of them go through a remarkable series of stunts in a way that is nothing short of marvelous. The children will simply go wild over the performance of these little creatures.

Another special feature is "The Painting Girl," a rich farce presented by Albert Weston, the celebrated English comedian, and Nellie Lynch, of musical comedy fame. Weston is an older brother of the "drunk" who was a scamp in the great English music hall act here a few months ago, and is the originator of the part.

A grand musical feature will be presented by the Sells Brothers, four Mexicans who win the most seductive, by far, of all musical instruments, being one of the most costly ever made. Over $1,000 on the circuit, their music has been a sensation.

ers represent every walk in life, and are descendants of the hardy pioneers of the Beehive state. All trades and professions are represented, while a number of the sopranos and contraltos in their home city are stenographers, clerks, nurses and housewives. At least two of the young people belong to the families of millionaires. All are singers, and some of them, notably the soloists, have studied in Berlin, Vienna and other music centers of Europe under the best masters.

The trip is in no sense of the word an exploitation of the Mormon church or a proselyting campaign. It is being undertaken under the patronage of the United States senators, the governor, state, county and city officials, and prominent business men and bankers of Salt Lake, irrespective of race or creed. Just prior to leaving "Zion," the big choir appeared in the famous turtle-backed tabernacle, together with Miss Nordor, whom the singers were given a ringing send-off. They leave behind them 350 other singers who belong to the choir, and who will appear at all the regular services, as heretofore.

In addition to a dozen soloists, the veteran director, Evan Stephens, who has waved the baton over the choir for more than a quarter of a century, and J. J. McClellan, the tabernacle organist, accompany the singers.

They will appear at the Opera house tonight, for one concert only, when selections from grand opera, some of the famous oratorios, samples of Mormon "home-made" music and other features will be rendered. The prices are 50c, 75c, $1 and $1.50.

"THE ROSARY" SEAT SALE

Every theatergoer in this city knows that "The Rosary" was the most talked about play last season. This play struck the popular chord of the people, and with its many human interest qualities, it proved to be immensely successful. "The Rosary" is being repeated again this season by the well-known producers, Rowland and Clifford, and it comes to the Opera house Tuesday night. Seats are now selling. The prices are 50c, 75c, $1 and $1.50.

"The Rosary" tells a modest and unassuming story of love, the watchful and protective influence of a good priest, ultimately restored the happiness of a home that had been wrecked by the evil plotting of one who coveted his neighbor's wife, and sought revenge because his rival had won the love of the woman to whom he had paid suit in the days when she was free to choose between them. In consistent action, the truth is made plain that suspicion, increasing to what seems certainly of guilt, is easily engendered, where even absolute innocence prevails, and the story's progress makes plausible its culmination in what seems irremediable disaster.

Equally plausible, however, is shown the power of the influence of good fighting against evil. The exposition is so simply and plainly submitted that the play's story of battle between good and evil is made to possess all the appeal of the earlier morality plays with which the stage had its beginning. The title character, Rev. Brian Kelly, is at every moment true to life.

DESERVINGLY POPULAR BILL OFF TONIGHT

One of the best and most popular bills of the year closes this evening at the Majestic theater and those who have not yet seen it should not neglect this last chance to do so. Especially is this true of the little folks for nowhere could they get more entertainment at such small cost.

The list of good things includes Prince Jack, the most wonderful educated monkey in the world; the hugely funny travesty on physical culture, called "Imagination," presented by the La-Vine-Cameron Trio; "Determination," the riotously laughable sketch put on for the first time in Colorado Springs by Willard Hutchinson and Rosamond Harrison; John Geiser and Nellie Walters in a novel musical act; the new Rex film, "The Tale of a Cat," and a very funny comic, shown by the Majestic, and the concert orchestra program.

Here is an hour and a half of vaudeville of the very highest class without a single dull moment in it. Performances at 7:45, 9:30 and 9:40. Admission only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

"THE HOUSE NEXT DOOR"

A bright, well constructed comedy, written around a commanding central figure is "The House Next Door," which appears at the Opera house Thanksgiving day, matinee and night.

The play is an able exposition of the follies of racial prejudices, pointing its moral by showing the uselessness of a crabbed old English Baronet's efforts to maintain a feud with a wealthy Jewish family who live in "the house next door." The important role of Sir John Catewold, about which the entire story revolves, is admirably interpreted by William V. Mong, who creates a thoroughly consistent picture of the fractious and tyrannical old man, formerly played by J. E. Dodson. Mr. Mong's portrayal compares favorably with that of his distinguished predecessor, and has won him the plaudits of theatergoers and critics from coast to coast. "The House Next Door" is a substantial dramatic triumph. The comic question is aimed at the satisfaction of all in the most charming comedy of the season.

END-OF-WEEK BILLS AT LIRIO AND CANTAL

Zena Kiefe, the popular little actress who appeared at the Majestic last year, heads the Friday and Saturday bill at the Lirio, in the little role of "The Cabin Boy." Fattie Preece, presents a thrilling, dramatic western story, and the Eversway company, "Dr. Slick's Cat," a moving comedy.

The great temperance film, "The Cure of John Douglas," is the headliner at the Lirio. The beautiful fairy comedy, "The Princess's Banquet," will delight every child; in fact, everyone in whom the spirit of youth still lives. The Edison comedy, "How the Telephone 'Came to Town,'" has been a hit wherever shown, and the western drama, "On Separate Paths," by the same company that acted "Way the West Wind is a Bachelor," is one of the best films ever produced.

Munch has a program in which the development of illumination from the prehistoric to modern times is shown.

GIDDINGS BROS

The year's last remnant sale

---two remnant sales every year here. They are held to clean up all the odd lengths of fabrics accumulated from a season's selling. This sale for Friday is the better of the two held this year. It includes hundreds of short and odd lengths of dress goods and silks, linings, wash goods, ginghams, white goods, linens, flannels, laces and trinnings, and figured silks, curtain nets, cretonnes, etc., from the upholstery and drapery department. A great accumulation of remnants of seasonable materials, kimono lengths in silks, waist lengths in silks and wools, skirt lengths in all kinds of woolen fabrics, odd pieces for fancy work and for making children's dresses and undergarments. For nearly every purpose you will find a piece of suitable goods during the remnant sale and the price will be only half the former remnant price.
